Sis is pretty particular and makes Dad use Chieftain paste all the time, so I give her feller a tin and just look at him. He slipped me a quarter for the tip, too, and Chieftain only cost me ten cents!"

Live Stock And Dairy

PRODUCING GOOD MILK.

Cleanliness and Proper Feeding Main Essentials in Dairying.

Cows must be healthy and kept clean. The barn should be kept clean, well lighted and ventilated. The barnyard should be kept clean and properly drained. Utensils should be thoroughly washed and scalded or steamed and kept in a clean room.

Cows should be fed good wholesome food and pure water.

Milkers and attendants who come in contact with the milk should be healthy and clean.

Cows should not be fed at milking time or immediately before. Dust from feed falls into the milk and contaminates it with germs.

Wipe the udder and side of cow with a damp cloth and milk with clean, dry hands. Use small top milking pail. This helps to keep foreign matter from the milk.

Immediately after milking remove the milk to a separate room from the barn to be strained and cooled. Cool the milk to as low a temperature as possible without freezing. Forty or 50 degrees F. retards growth of most germs and particularly those that cause milk to sour quickly.

In summer keep flies out of the barn and milk room. One fly may carry as many as 150,000 germs to the milk. These may be disease germs. Manure should not be allowed to accumulate around the barn. It is a breeding place for flies.

The number of bacteria in milk depends largely upon cleanliness of milking and handling, temperature at which milk is kept and age of milk. Therefore clean milk, quick cooling and prompt delivery are very important factors in producing pure dairy products.

Lime is a good disinfectant and should be used liberally in the dairy barn.—V. R. Jones, Dairy Husbandry Department, South Dakota State College.

SHELTER FOR SHEEP.

Plans For a Barn Should Include Dry Floors and Abundance of Air.

It is impossible to suggest any very definite sheep barn plans without knowing under just what conditions the barn is to be built. In planning barns or sheds for a breeding flock of sheep a space of ten or twelve square feet per ewe will give sufficient room. The essentials of shelter for sheep are: (1) dry floor, (2) good roof, (3) an abundance of fresh air, (4) avoid drafts, (5) avoid narrow doors and passages so a ewe heavy with lamb will not be injured, and (6) provide sufficient feeding trough space so all the sheep can eat at the same time.

We find that a shed twenty-five or thirty feet wide and as long as necessary to house the flock gives very good results at the Missouri agricultural experiment station. It should be open on the south and may be built with a feed trough and feed alley along the north side. Economy of rack space may be secured by the use of movable racks so arranged as to make as many lots as are needed in the shed. These partition racks can be moved out of the way whenever a wagon is driven in to be loaded with manure. The shed should be high enough to afford plenty of loft room. As we feed baled hay, a loft five feet high at the eaves gives us room enough to store a winter's supply for the flock, but if loose hay is put in and fed correspondingly more loft room must be provided.—Professor H. Hack-edorn.

Study of Beet Roots.

Ten years' patient watching and study indicate that difference in size, total sugar content and percentage of sugar of beet roots furnish no evidence of inheritance and that there is no correlation between percentage or quantity of sugar of roots of ordinary sizes and their yield of seed and percentage of sugar in progeny. The conclusion reached is that the fluctuation in the percentage and yield of sugar may be now regarded as due to soil conditions, both as to natural formations and cultivation of fertilizer methods practiced.

Green Feed For Hens.

Hens need some green food in winter if they are to lay well. Mangels, carrots and cabbage are good. Hang them up so that the hens can just reach them nicely. Sprouted oats are also good. Alfalfa and clover leaves can be soaked up and fed to good advantage.

Tree Planting.

Trees should not be shipped during the winter, as there is danger of freezing, but if there is a nursery near you trees may be bought and planted any time during the winter that the ground is dry enough. Fall or spring is best.
